College of Agriculture

A BRIEF resume of the year's activities in the Agricultural College shows a continued gradual increase in enrollment. This year marks the inauguration of a system of contact counselors by which two faculty members and one upper-class student keep in touch with about five freshmen. It is hoped that this system will provide mature advice to the individual freshman on the problems associated with his adjustment to university life, and will prevent him from dropping far behind in his scholastic work before remedial measures may be applied.

The extra curricular student organizations comprising the Horticultural Club, the Livestock Club, the Student Grange, and the Alpha Zeta honor agricultural fraternity have added to their number the Agricultural Club which brings all agricultural students together in one organization. Activities associated with these organizations provide the students with ample opportunity to acquire much needed experience.

At the Eastern States Exposition in September the dairy products judging team, composed of C. G. Byrd, J. R. Parks, and H. L. Stier, took seventh place among the teams from the eastern part of the United States and Canada. At the same exposition the dairy cattle judging team, composed of W. H. Hanna, H. L. Stier, and Ralph England, took fifth place among the ten teams in that contest. W. H. Hanna was ninth man among the thirty individual contestants.

During the year an esteemed honor was bestowed upon a member of the faculty. Dr. E. C. Auchter, head of the Horticultural Department, was elected a Fellow of the Royal Horticultural Society of Great Britain. In spite of the fact that this society has existed for 128 years, only 69 men have received this particular distinction.

College of Arts and Sciences

THE COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES of the University of Maryland is now just completing the tenth year of its existence. Prior to the organization of the present College, Arts and Science subjects were scattered throughout many departments, which were more or less independent.

The demand of students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences must be met not only for basic subjects, but for the more advanced subjects which will promote their vocational, avocational and cultural welfare. Moreover this demand must be so met that the student shall receive not only competent instruction, but inspiration and guidance for life work and a sane outlook on life.

The future of the Arts and Science College of the University of Maryland is most promising. The rapid progress it has made in one decade definitely shows two things—first, that for what may be called a fundamental education, there is an increasing demand which guarantees a constant increase in the number of students; second, that the internal forces which have done so much for the College in so short a time guarantee a virility equal to all the emergencies of the future, whatsoever they may be. It may also be stated that the College will always receive its share of the results flowing from the increasing popularity of the entire University of Maryland.

The long felt need for an Arts and Science building will undoubtedly be met as soon as that item is reached in the general program for the development of the University.

College of Engineering

THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING, one of the earliest to be established in the United States, has had a most satisfactory growth since its reorganization in 1920. The enrollment has steadily increased from 108 students in 1919 to 320 students in 1930, an increase of almost 200 percent.

The College includes the Departments of Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering. A few years ago the curricula were considerably changed, the general purpose being to broaden the courses of instruction, that young men may be better prepared to enter industry or the public service.

Engineering research is recognized today as one of the most needed useful contributions that the engineering college can make to the State. Work of this character is under way at the University of Maryland, where, through cooperation with the Maryland State Roads Commission and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, highway research problems are being studied, the solution of which will prove of utmost value to the people of the State. It is planned to develop as rapidly as possible this phase of the work, which will have, aside from its great economic value to the State, an important educational value because of the close contact the students will have with the live engineering problems of today.

In view of the policy of putting as much public work as possible under contract, there is an increased field in prospect for employment of engineers, and as has been hitherto the fact, the members of the graduating class have positions assured them even before the date of graduation.

College of Education

THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION was established in 1920. It was organized to meet the need of the following classes of students: undergraduate students preparing to teach the cultural and vocational studies in the high schools; advanced students preparing for educational work in the trades or the industries; county agents, home demonstrators, and other extension workers; and lastly, students majoring in other lines who desire courses in education for their informational and cultural values.

The instructional work is conducted by five functional divisions or departments: History and Principles of Education, Methods in Academic and Scientific Subjects, Agricultural Education, Home Economics Education, and Industrial Education.

This year, a four-year curriculum in Industrial Education has been established leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. This curriculum will be administered on the extension and Summer School basis.

The degrees conferred upon students who have met the prescribed conditions are Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science. A Teachers Special Diploma is also awarded to candidates whose records give promise of success in teaching.

By the generous cooperation of the Prince George's County school authorities the practice teaching is provided for in the Hyattsville High School under the direction of skilled teachers. Observation of high school classes is carried on in the Washington High Schools.

The Summer School is administered by the Dean of the College of Education, who acts as Director of the Summer Session.

The College of Education and the Summer School have shown a healthy growth during the past ten years.

College of Home Economics

THE COLLEGE OF HOME ECONOMICS was established in 1919. For administrative purposes, the College is organized into the Departments of Foods and Nutrition; Textiles, Clothing, and Art; and Home and Institutional Management.

The home economics subjects are planned to meet the needs of the following classes of students: (1) those who desire a general knowledge of the facts and principles of Home Economics without specializing in any one phase of Home Economics; (2) those students who wish to teach Home Economics in schools or to become Extension Specialists in Home Economics; (3) those who are interested in certain phases of Home Economics with the intention of becoming dietitians, restaurant and cafeteria managers, textile specialists, clothing designers, buyers of clothing in department stores, or demonstrators for commercial firms.

A teacher's diploma is offered to those who complete specified subjects in the College of Education. With the introduction of the block system, whereby the senior year is divided into periods of six weeks of concentration upon several subjects, practical experience is gained along the lines of specialization. A home management house is maintained in which each student lives for some time during her last year. A Bachelor of Science Degree is conferred upon the completion of the four-year course; while opportunities for advanced work lead to a Master's Degree.

Graduates of the College of Home Economics are successfully holding positions as buyers of clothing in department stores; as specialists in foods; as members of editorial staffs; in hospitals and institutions as dietitians; as teachers in secondary schools and colleges; and as specialists on extension staffs.

Agricultural Experiment Station

THE AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION is primarily the research department of the University. Few realize that the Colleges of Agriculture of the United States had little material for use in teaching until after the Experiment Stations began to function. Not only did they furnish material to build up substantial systematic courses of instruction in agriculture for high schools and colleges, but the Stations were also responsible for calling into existence the Extension Departments, and they continue to supply them with most of the materials upon which to base demonstrations and propaganda.

At this University, the Experiment Station occupies an important place in encouraging and fostering graduate work in agriculture and the allied sciences. Graduate students assist in the field in which they are majoring, for which they receive a monetary compensation, and a supply of valuable material for their dissertation. These research assistantships are mutually helpful to students and Experiment Station. They enable many men and women to make better preparation for their life's work, and furnish the Station with help of a high type.

The Maryland Station has contributed in a very substantial way towards increasing the yields of wheat, corn and hay through better varieties and cultural methods. Fruit growing on a commercial scale has been developed and made possible. Animal, dairy and poultry husbandry has been greatly advanced through better methods of feeding and demonstrating the value of good breeds and strains.

Work is organized under twelve departments. There are over one hundred and fifty projects in progress located in every county in Maryland.

Extension Service

THE EXTENSION SERVICE of the University of Maryland extends the benefits and influence of the University and the Experiment Station to the farms and into the homes throughout the State. In addition to a corps of specialists who make their headquarters at the University, the Extension Service maintains an Agricultural Agent and a Home Demonstration Agent in each county, and also an assistant agent in a number of counties.

The work has been focused upon Agriculture and Home Economics, but it includes in its scope all of the many phases of those broad subjects that have a bearing upon the farming industry and rural life.

Extension workers deal with people of all ages and all circumstances. Through the Boys' and Girls' Club work they are affording the youth of the State an opportunity for practical training in agriculture and home making. Last year more than six thousand boys and girls were enrolled in club work and carried out some definite project or demonstration. Adults of all ages are kept informed regarding the latest developments affecting their industry and are given specific aid in solving their problems.

Methods employed in Extension work are extremely varied. They are designed to present information in such form that the essential points can be easily grasped. Actual demonstrations have a prominent place, motion pictures, slides, charts, and other means of visual instruction are used extensively. Lectures, publications of various kinds, letters, personal visits, and radio talks, all have their place in Extension activities.

Extension workers must have broad and thorough training, must be intensely practical, unusually resourceful, and must possess a personality that wins and holds the confidence and respect of those whom they serve.

Graduate School

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL offers to qualified students with the bachelor's degree an opportunity to pursue intensive study and to undertake research in a restricted field. The higher degrees conferred by the University of Maryland for work in the Graduate School are Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Doctor of Philosophy.

A candidate for the master's degree devotes a minimum of one academic year or its equivalent to a systematic and intensive study in a limited field of knowledge. By such concentrated effort the student becomes thoroughly familiar with the literature of his major subject and also with the methods of obtaining new information.

Three years of full time resident graduate study beyond the bachelor's degree or two years beyond the masters' degree are usually required for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. This degree is not conferred merely as a certificate of residence and work, but is granted only upon sufficient evidence of high attainments in scholarship and ability to carry on independent research in the special field in which the major work is done.

Many of the men and women who have received advanced degrees in the Graduate School are now discharging important duties as scientific specialists in the service of the State and Federal governments.

The faculty of the Graduate School includes all members of the various faculties of instruction and research who give instruction in approved graduate courses. The general administrative functions of the Graduate Faculty are delegated to a Graduate Council, of which the Dean of the Graduate School is chairman.

Senior Class History

BINGO! Just like that. Four, solid, honest-to-goodness years—pouf! Funny how time passes when Old Man Age begins to pile up the years in earnest.

Only yesterday we were freshmen; last night, we were sophomores; early this morning, we were Juniors—and now look at us! In the afternoon of the happiest day of our youth—college seniors! Shortly, at the sundown of our university career, they'll hand us bits of parchment, make speeches over us and turn us out into an unresponsive world another hapless crew of June graduates.

We're proud of our Past—no one can ever take that away from us and trample it—remember the Freshman Frolic and the Prom we threw? And how the varsity came along and snaffled three, whoopin' good basketeters—six lacrosse wizards? And our Soph Prom—which supplied conversation for six weeks at least?

In a way the campus has grown up with us—fraternities and sororities have gone national—new Greek tabernacles have risen—and, in our early days, our ladies (God bless 'em) became charges of the American Association of University Women. Then—ah—what a Junior Prom!

As seniors, we varnished on our dignity; Joe Deckman guided our destinies with a firm hand and wrinkled brow; James Lee was vice-president, Jane Hammack, secretary, and McClellan Dixon, treasurer. We produced "campus leaders" by the dozens—darn good ones, too. And people yelled when they discovered how many of the Terps best athletes would graduate with us—life is like that.

You'll remember us, you undergrads—not merely because we're leaving you a Sun-Dial—not because our names have been added to the list of old grads before us—but because of the friendships and loyalty we've left behind for the rest of you lucky devils to cherish forever.

Junior Class History

AND, in this corner of the academic ring, folks, we have the class of '32—the class from whose members came a nize, beeyootiful Southern Conference Championship.

Did we come through in a big way? Or didn't we? Just cast your weary orbs over the sports line-ups for '30-'31; glance casually over the files of the Diamond-back; ponder on the future moguls nurtured in our midst—we've got the whole campus in the bag!

As freshmen and sophomores, we went into training—and built concrete bases to put our trophies on—the trophies and triumphs which, so far, have almost resulted in a severe shortage of concrete.

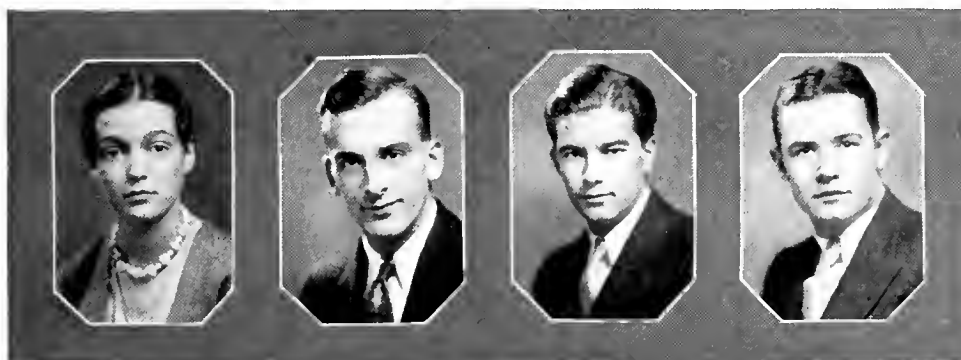

In a class of luminaries such as ours, one can readily see that the executive officer is bound to be worth a column on anybody's front page—add one, divide by two, and what have you got? "Bozey", of course. They christened him "Louis" Berger, but he pawned that in favor of "Bozey"—a name which the sports world has come to recognize and acclaim. To John Roth, we bowed deeply and set him up next to "Boze" as vice-president; Laura Nevius secretary-ed things, and Ted Meyer watched the money roll in—and out (Item: 1 Junior Prom.).

Basketball, thus far, has proved our shining light—virtually the entire varsity wore Junior circles under their eyes. But lacrosse drew its quota, and Irvin Wolf produced the sort of year-book you read about in journalism commentaries. Five Juniors dangled new O. D. K. keys this year—five out of the eight men chosen.

Pax Voviscum, Seniors! You have been great—we shall be even greater!

Sophomore Class History

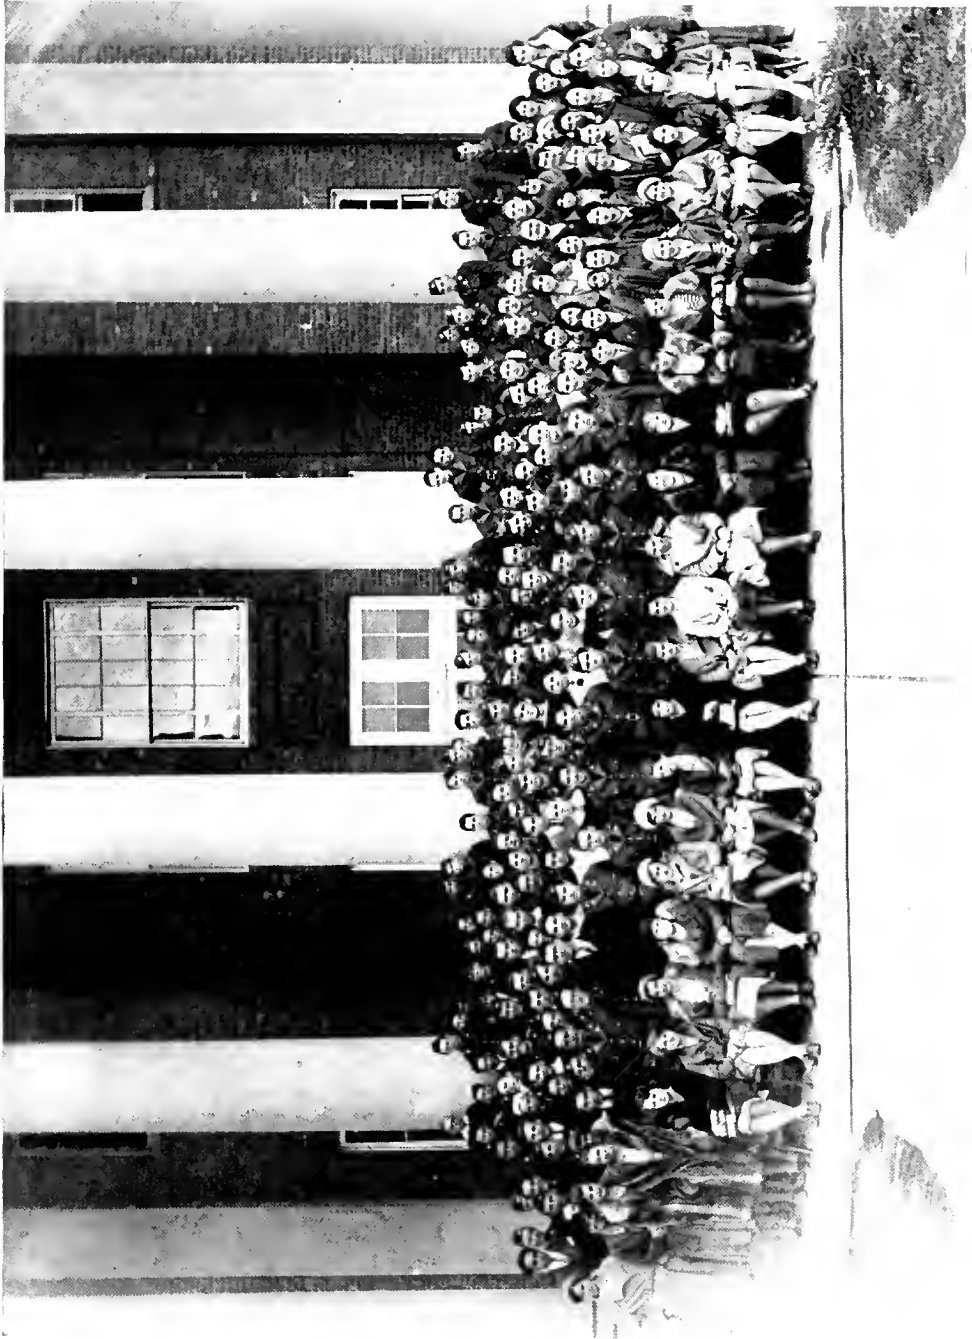

Of course, just as Solomon and Brigham Young had wives and wives, a university has sophomores and sophomores—and every class is blessed with its own particular conceit in past achievements. We, of nineteen thirty-three, have produced no meteors. As freshmen we did nothing extraordinary—plugged along steadily and wriggled almost unnoticed into every activity on the Hill—foxed 'em, we did. Football, basketball, lacrosse, publications, dramatics—as frosh we took them all modestly in hand, spanked them soundly, put them to work—and "Baby Terp" triumphs because a matter of predestination.

Unexpectedly, June tore around the collegiate corner and saw us off to three months of bliss and blisters. University chat and fraternity bills were far away then—we thought only of unguentine and bigger and belter moth-holes in bathing trunks.

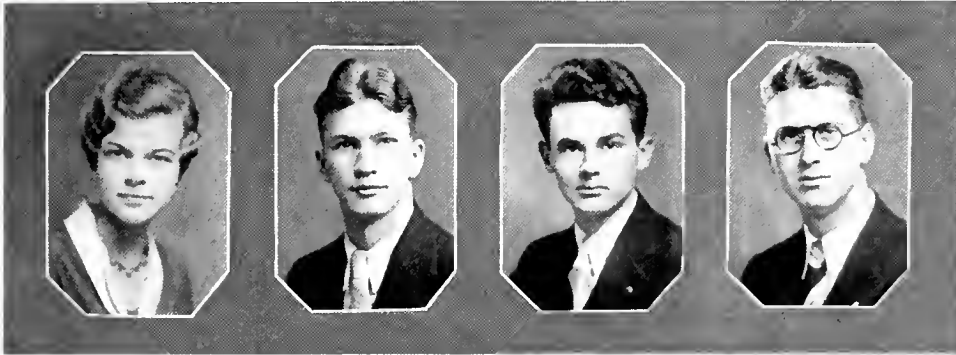

Suddenly—September again! Stealthily it crept up and kicked us, and left us counting the weeks, days, and, finally, hours. Registration . . . old friends . . . freshmen to eye dourly and criticize . . . to paddle and impress . . . to rush and pledge . . . to eventually accept without misgiving . . . and forget, in the press of more important affairs.

Then on the shoulders of "Smoky" Wood, we rested the cares and burdens of the class presidency; Dorrance Kelly, we tumbled into the vice-presidency; to "Zuke" Plumley went the cash and problems of high finance; and to Betty Smaltz we handed the secretaryship, together with roses and best wishes. Charles Spicknall and Esther Hughes were our representatives on the Executive Council.

The Sophomore Prom was a masterpiece—one of the outstanding formals on the social calendar . . . spring athletic line-ups circulated the impression that the entire class was out for one sport or another—hitch-hiking to lacrosse. We circulated like disease germs.

Freshman Class History

ONE thing we Freshmen did, if nothing else—presented the University with the largest frosh enrollment in its history. Oh, we were big in numbers—no doubt; but we were big otherwise—in stature, weight, and achievement. Even the sophs—All-Wise and paddle-conscious—were prone to go gently in their beneficent administration. Gently? Perhaps. If our first months at Maryland were dotted with kind and considerate sophomores—well, maybe we're wrong.

Then, down in the Silvester cellar one night, we hatched up a football team, gave 'em shoulder pads and best wishes and sent 'em forth to do battle for the honor and glory of '34; they did the battle and we got the glory, and varsity and child are doing nicely, thanks.

At Homecoming, we stepped into the spotlight, clad in pyjamas, and gave vent to pent-up emotions. The Class Clown (naming no names) put on a one-man show with an eccentric "horse" which, we are willing to wager, never munched a blade of grass in its erratic life. Some of the effect, it must be admitted, was lost when the "horse" called our Clown some rather hard names in hearing of the stands. Moral: Never kick that kind of a horse in the shins.

Shortly after, we forgot the old adage "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts" and Pledge Day struck us heartily amidsthips. Later on, the Greeks themselves did the striking, and you can call it amidsthip if you like—we know other, more descriptive terms.

We elected officers, discovering no end of pride in the fact that the rest of the classes elected officers, too. Bob Kent was booted into the presidential chair with Bob Wiley following him on the second bounce. Sara Short became secretary, and John Mattern finance manipulator.

The Freshman Prom and Frolic were uniformly acclaimed by everyone but the Sophomores—but who cares about sophomores? Of course, next year, things will be different—it almost appals us to think what a wonderful class we'll have.

Three months, now—and the wood will fall on the Class of '35—and '34 will wield it. Heaven—lend us strength!

ACTIVITIES

"Let with belief, they thus begin the way,
With the blinding storm is overblown."

WILLIAM H. HOTTEL
Advisory Editor of Student Publications

Student Publications

MARYLAND is fortunate in having Mr. William H. Hottel, a professional newspaper man, as advisory editor of the three student publications—The Reveille, yearbook, The Diamondback weekly newsheet; and The Old Line, humorous magazine.

Mr. Hottel has long been connected with the Evening Star of Washington, D. C., although he started his newspaper career with the Washington Post. He is also Director of Public Relations of the University of Maryland, and in connection with this office he serves as chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications.

It is largely through Mr. Hottel's steady influence and mature judgment that Maryland's publications have been able to attain their present high status in the collegiate world.

Cooperation among the various publications on the campus is perhaps the keynote of Maryland's success. A concrete example of this is seen in the manner in which the two older journals, The Reveille and The Diamondback, have fostered the infant publication, The Old Line. Its officers and many of its staff members received their training with the other publications, and a number of these students still maintain their previous journalistic connections while contributing to The Old Line.

The Maryland Christian Association, which issues the "M" Handbook at the beginning of each school year, usually calls upon the regular student publications for capable and experienced students to supervise this undertaking during the summer months.

Maryland Scholastic Press Association

THE Maryland Scholastic Press Association was established in the fall of 1929 by Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, which sensed the need of such an organization in the State of Maryland. The purpose of the Association is to further the interests of high school journalism in Maryland; to promote cooperation among high school editors, managers, and faculty advisors in the exchange of ideas for the improvement of their publications; to take advantage of the advice and helpful cooperation offered by Pi Delta Epsilon; and to stand for the highest standards of journalistic effort among high school students.

The second annual convention held at the University of Maryland on December 12 and 13, 1930, was most successful, with fifty-seven delegates, representing twenty-one Maryland high schools, in attendance. Leading addresses were made by Norman Baxter, managing editor of The Washington Post, and Professor N. Bryllion Fagin of the University of Baltimore, and a number of round table discussions were held. The meeting was concluded with a visit to the plant of The Evening Star in Washington.

Pi Delta Epsilon sponsors the Maryland Scholastic Press Association through the medium of a committee, which this year consisted of Irvin Wolf, Gibbs Myers, and William Kricker, chairman.

The following high Schools were represented at the convention: Maryland Park, Central High of Lonaconing, Williamsport, Sparks, Baltimore Poly, Sherwood, Marlboro, McDonogh, Sudlersville, Smithsburg, Fairland, Hyattsville, Surrattsville, Severn, Baden, Boonsboro, Westminster, Gaithersburg, Beall, and Hampstead.

The Reveille

SINCE its first publication in 1897, The Reveille, after many varied obstacles has evolved to its present day paramount position in the field of college annuals.

The Central Interscholastic Press Association noting the merits of the book designated it a first class book in the years 1925 and 1926. When this Association became the National Scholastic Press Association in 1928, The Reveille received a second class rating. Again in 1929 the annual returned to its first class position, being awarded this place by the aforementioned organization. These superior attainments are alone evidences of its continuous improvement.

Like former years The 1931 Reveille does not contain any advertisements. This marks it distinct in the field of collegiate yearbooks. The recent change in Student Legislation provides for a large fund to be at the disposal of The Reveille and this has provided approximately the same amount as collected in previous years when the Student Publications fee was in use. This, plus a sum derived from charges to student organizations, for their appearance in the book, are the sole income and this finances the annual.

There are three major publication officers on The Reveille Staff, namely: Editor-in-chief, Women's Editor, and Business Manager. These offices are gained by recommendation of the Faculty Advisor of Student Publications, and the final election by the annual Student Body elections, in the spring of the year in which they are to serve.

The Junior Class edits and compiles the annual, presenting it to the Seniors as a record of their last year at Maryland. In their senior year the officers, act in an advisory capacity for the active officers and staff.

The Diamondback

THE weekly student newspaper at the University of Maryland very appropriately takes its name from the Diamondback Terrapin, an animal with which the Old Line State was formerly very populous, and which is famed far and wide as a table delicacy.

The Diamondback is published in the interests of the students, faculty, and alumni of the University, and has a weekly circulation of about 1800. It is supported entirely by subscriptions and advertising. At the close of each school year, a final twelve-page edition is issued, which is news-story and pictures, reviews the activities of the school during the past year. Copies of this issue are sent by the University to every high school graduate in the State.

The Diamondback is headed by an Editor-in-Chief under whom are the department heads: Business Manager, News Editor, Sports Editor, and Women's Editor. The Business Manager's department is the most isolated and is composed of advertising and circulation functions. The other three divisions are more closely associated, and are directly supervised by the Editor-in-Chief.

Theoretically, control of The Diamondback rests with the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, but as a practical matter no supervision is exercised over the management of the paper, although occasional advice is given by the Advisory Editor.

Among the changes made in The Diamondback during the past year are a more conspicuous title-head, improved feature headings and layouts, more variety in headlines in order to fit the captions to the nature of the news items, a greater number of pictures, and a weekly message from the President over his signature.

The Old Line

THE OLD LINE, a quarterly humorous publication, was founded in the spring of 1930 by the Student Government Association who felt the need of such a publication on the University of Maryland campus. For the first year the officers were appointed by the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, the Student Government Association voting for this procedure. The Editor-in-Chief and Woman's Editor of the 1930 Reveille and the Business Manager of The Diamondback were appointed to respective positions on The Old Line. After the first year the officers are to qualify for nomination by service on the magazine, and then election by the entire student body in the spring elections.

The Old Line is financed by the blanket tax paid by each student on registering in the University and by revenue received from advertising. This is a senior publication, the three major officers, Editor-in-Chief, Woman's Editor and Business Manager all being seniors. The Art Editor is a junior and is appointed by the Editor-in-Chief. The magazine consists of thirty-two pages and carries a very attractive cover design appropriate to the occasion upon which it is issued.

Theoretically, control of The Old Line, including all the printed material, all its policies, in addition to supervision of the selection of officers of the staff, rests with the chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications. As a practical matter, however, no supervision is exercised over the management of the magazine but occasional advice is given by the committee.

The Old Line has appeared on the campus four times during the past year, Homecoming Day, beginning of second semester, Junior Prom Weekend and June Week, respectively. All four of the issues were received with great approval by the student body.

Student Government Association

THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION is the recognized student organization which governs the student body of the University. It is composed of two bodies, Student Executive Council and Student Congress, and regulates all student business.

The Student Executive Council is composed of two representatives from each class, the president and the vice-president of each class, the president of the Women's Student Government Association, the president and the vice-president of the Student Government Association. The Vice-President of the Student Government Association is the presiding officer of the Executive Council.

The Student Congress comprises representatives from the dormitories, fraternities, and the day students. Each group is entitled to one representative for every thirty students or major fraction thereof, comprising that group. The president of the Student Government Association presides over the Student Congress meetings.

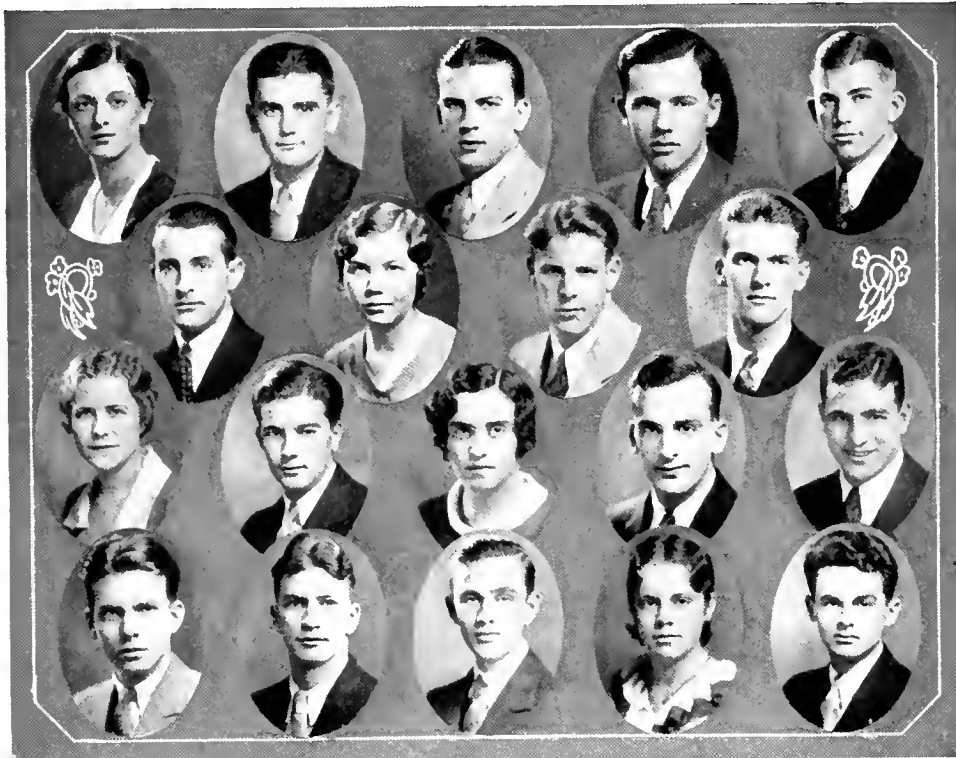

The Faculty Committee On Student Affairs and the Student Government Association work together for the betterment of the student, and the student activities.

This year marked the inauguration of the Student's Activities Fee of Ten Dollars, which covers the class dues and the publications fee for each student. In conjunction with this system, the centralized control of all student organizations by the Faculty Representatives and the Student Government Association has proven to be successful.

The Student Government Association has contributed a much needed aid in the regulation of the Dining Hall. Plans are being made for improving the management of the dormitories.

In order to provide an economical social function for the students, the Association sponsored dances after several of the Basketball games. These dances were very successful and will probably be continued next year.

A program is being sponsored by The Student Government Association whereby each class will allow, in its budget, a memorial fund. This fund will be used by each class to establish some permanent memorial upon the graduation of the class.

GEARY EPPLEY
Faculty Advisor of Student Finances

A VARIED and thorough participation in undergraduate activities while a student at Maryland, before and after the World War, instilled in Geary Eppley a love and an attachment to his alma mater which has extended to the present day. Few men connected with the University can boast a greater interest or activity in the ever-changing student body and its affairs than this genial gentleman who numbers among his attainments associate professor of Agronomy and assistant agronomist at the Experiment Station in charge of forage crop investigation, varsity track coach, faculty member of the Student Grange, faculty supervisor of the Student Employment Service, and faculty advisor of student finances. Outside of the University, our good-natured Mr. Eppley is listed as Master of Prince Georges County Pomona Grange, Post Commander of the University of Maryland Post of the American Legion, and a major in the cavalry reserve commanding the 2nd Squadron of the 306th Cavalry.

In his undergraduate days at the old Maryland Agricultural College, "Swede", as he was more familiarly termed, was very much in evidence in athletics, military, and publications work. He was on the track team for three years and held the school record in the high jump until it was broken by Henry Matthews. In 1917 he performed as guard on the football team and returned after the War to win his "M" as an end in 1919 and 1920. He was major of the University battalion in 1917 until leaving for actual war service in the fall of that year. During the school term 1916-17 he served as Business Manager of the Maryland State Weekly.

Returning to college after serving as a second lieutenant of Cavalry in France, "Swede" completed his college education with a B. S. degree in agriculture and was awarded, in addition, the H. C. Byrd Citizenship Medal. He is a member of Sigma Phi Sigma social fraternity and Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi honorary fraternities.

Military

MAJOR ALVAN C. GILLEM, JR.
Professor of Military Science and Tactics

AN officer and a gentleman, a military man from a military family . . . that in brief is Major Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., the new professor of Military Science and Tactics at Maryland. Arriving on this campus last fall to head the Maryland unit of the R. O. T. C., this officer, who has had experience of world-wide scope, quickly endeared himself to the University in general, and his fellow officers and military proteges of the unit in particular. Today he is, without a doubt, one of the most popular members of the Old Line faculty.

Probably the best way to acquaint the reader more thoroughly with this efficient gentleman would be to set down in more or less chronological order the salient points in his steady rise to military prominence.

To begin with, "The Major" was brought up in a complete military environment, spending his boyhood in and about army posts until, as a young man, he left college to enter the army himself. His first commission came in 1911, when he was sent to Manila as a 2nd Lieutenant of the 12th Infantry. After his return to the United States, he participated, under General Pershing, in the border disturbances and skirmishes along the Arizona-Mexican line. In 1916 he was promoted to the rank of 1st Lieutenant and the following year, subsequent to the War, was made a Captain. Next, he was placed in command of the 23rd Machine Gun Battalion, and received his majority while with this unit in 1918.

Four and one-half months later, in October, 1918, the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel was given him and he was transferred to the 27th Infantry, American Expeditionary Forces, in Siberia. Subsequent service saw him in Manila, Hawaii, and Mexico before leaving his command to enter the Army War College in Washington, from which he graduated in 1926. Following this graduation, and prior to his detailment to the University of Maryland, he served as a member of the General Staff Corps as a War Plans Officer.

Reserve Officers' Training Corps

THE efficient work of the former head of this department, Major R. S. Lytle, combined with the splendid response of the members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and my staff, enabled the present P. M. S. & T. to initiate a new military regime with minimum friction.

A noteworthy incident of the school year was the issue of a new model roll collar type uniform by the War Department. This modification of equipment, which permits greater freedom of action and includes distinctive R. O. T. C. facings, adds greatly to the military appearance of the individual cadet and the regiment when assembled. Black leather waist belts and distinctive Maryland collar insignia were furnished by the University.

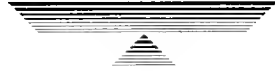

I cannot permit this opportunity to pass without expressing my sincere appreciation to the heads of the other Departments of the University for their spirit of cooperation as indicated by relations with the P. M. S. & T. I likewise desire to thank Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Henry Whiting, whose loyal aid and leadership contributed materially to the attainment of our mutual objective.

The Little Symphony Orchestra

PROF. B. LOUIS GOODYEAR
Director

THE University of Maryland Little Symphony Orchestra, which was founded in 1924 by Professor B. Louis Goodyear, has come to be essential to the success of the presentations of the Opera Club, the Festival Chorus, and the Footlight Club.

But besides its activities in furnishing instrumental accompaniments, the orchestra has given many concerts at the University and elsewhere, and has broadcast several programs.

The programs of the Little Symphony have done much to instill an appreciation of good music into both their audiences and the players themselves. The standards have been kept consistently high; only music by the best composers, modern and older has been played. In a recent program the composers whose work was presented included Handel, Gluck, Mascagni, Brahms, Borowski, Gounod, and Grieg.

Professor Goodyear has been the director of the orchestra since its inception; and he deserves much credit for the excellence of the programs presented and for the willingness of the orchestra to assist in the presentations of the many other organizations on the campus.

The Student Band

THE U. of M. Student Board was first organized in the year 1927, and was composed of members under the capable leadership of Mr. Simmons. Since that time the Band has grown to an organization of fifty-five pieces and is now under the leadership of Mr. Otto Siebeneichen.

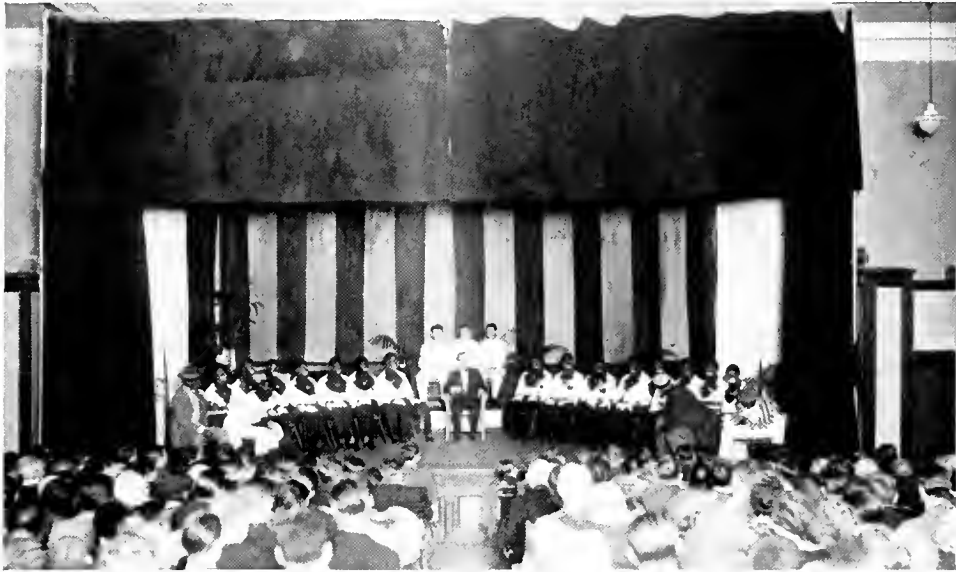

Much can be said of the loyalty and cooperation given the Band thru its adolescent days by its respected leader, and also by its "Silent Partner", Professor Hoshall, the Band's Faculty Advisor. Too much cannot be said for these two men who steadied and guided when things went wrong.

Professor Hoshall inaugurated the present system which the Student Band uses in forming letters upon the field, a very difficult task due to the ever changing size of the organization.

Little need be said about the Annual Band concert—the gymnasium was packed!

The Band was present at all of the football games played at home, the more important basketball, baseball, and lacrosse games, and took the trips to Richmond, Norfolk, Hopkins, and Annapolis with the teams! The effect of the music was to raise the spirit of the teams and to lead the students in their cheering. When the basketball five returned victorious from the Southern Conference, the Band met them and expressed the pride of the school by playing its triumphant songs.

One of the chief contributions made by the Band this year was the presentation of a new march, "Old Line Spirit", composed by one of its members, Mr. Herbert Cooper.

Opera Club

SINCE its organization in 1924 the Maryland Opera Club has annually offered to friends, students, and faculty members the most elaborate and ambitious stage presentations ever to be held on the Maryland campus. With the good reception that is accorded them, these productions have come to be looked on as outstanding among the dramatic and musical events of the college year.

Professor B. Louis Goodyears, who is director of the Opera Club, was also instrumental in bringing about its organization seven years ago. At that time the Club presented "Carmelita", a comic opera which was arranged by Professor Goodyear; and this piece met with so much success that it was repeated the next year.

After the presentation of "Erminie" by Jakobowski in 1926, there followed a series of Gilbert and Sullivan light operas, which consisted of "The Pirates of Penzance", "H. M. S. Pinafore", "The Mikado", and "The Yeomen of the Guard".

This year the Opera Club produced Robert Planquette's popular and tuneful operetta, "The Chimes of Normandy". It was presented before large and appreciative audiences on the evenings of April 29 and 30. Excellent costumes by the Hooker Howe Company of Haverhill, Mass., and scenery by Amelia Grain of Philadelphia enhanced the good work of the performers. The musical accompaniment was provided by the Little Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Professor Goodyear.

The object of the Opera Club is to furnish its members with a possibility for expressing their musical and dramatic talent, and at the same time presenting to the campus as a whole a finished production of high artistic value, and thereby helping to uphold the high standard of culture for which the school stands.

The officers for this year were Gibbs Myers, President; Lenore Blount, Vice-President; Norman Wilson, Secretary-Treasurer; Dorothy Claflin, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer; Professor B. Louis Goodyear, Director.

Footlight Club

PRODUCTION of "The Queen's Husband", a comedy drama by Robert Sherwood, and "Square Crooks", a comedy mystery play from the pen of James P. Judge, marked 1930-31 as an entirely successful year of dramatic presentation for the Footlight Club, Maryland's lone play producing organization.

William Anderson, a performer of three years' experience with the Footlight Club, enacted the leading role of King Eric VIII. Elizabeth Mims played the part of the Queen; Joseph Caldara depicted General Northrup, an egotistical and dominant premier; Ralph Williams and Mary Ricketts played the romantic leads of Frederick Granton and Princess Anne; William Hoover, a newcomer to the Maryland stage, played the part of Prince William of Greck, the unwanted lover; and the remaining characterizations were taken by Gordon Zimmerman, George Ruhl, Bill Gifford, Herbert Eby, and Henry Whiting.

"Square Crooks" proved to be one of the best dramas ever presented at Maryland since the inauguration of play production in 1926. Gordon K. Zimmerman, Helen Mead, Joseph Caldara, and Elizabeth Mims played the leading roles with the best success of their collegiate careers. For the first time in the history of the organization, two performances of a play were given.

As in past years, the work of Dr. C. B. Hale, Footlight Club director, was one of the outstanding reasons for the success of the organization. Handicapped by meager financial backing and poor stage equipment, he was nevertheless able to present to Maryland audiences relatively finished productions. Any success credited to the organization reverts directly to its capable director.

Officers for the year were: Gordon K. Zimmerman, President; Helen Mead, Vice-President; Virginia Cooke, Secretary; Ralph Williams, Treasurer.

DISPLAYING more ability and enthusiasm than any of their predecessors, the 1930-1931 edition of the Maryland cheer leaders, composed of Joe Caldara, Ed Tippett, and Loring Gingell; senior, junior, and sophomore cheer leaders respectively, proved to be a very efficient and adept trio.

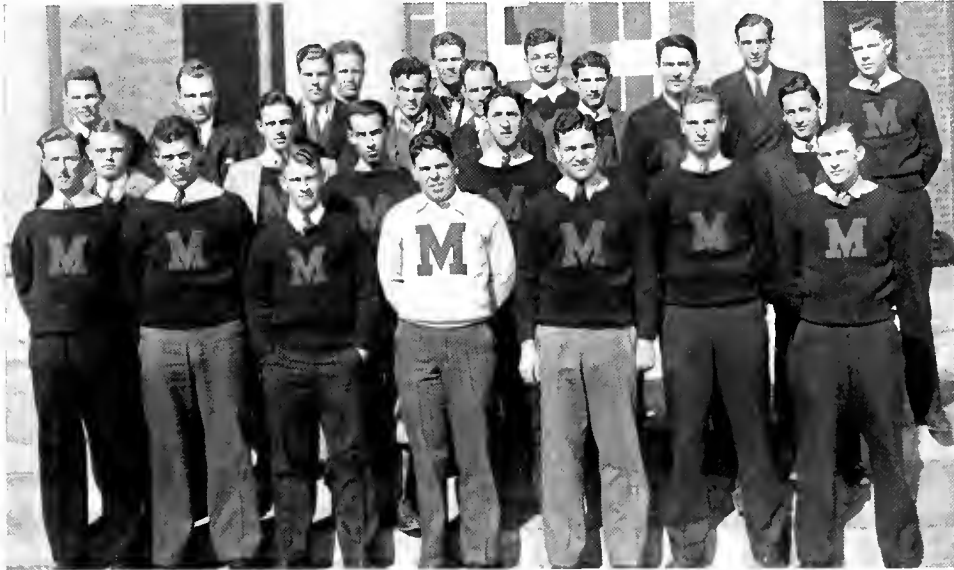

The gold M of Maryland was seen at every football game on the varsity schedule, with the exception of two; the games with the University of North Carolina and Vanderbilt. At all other varsity pigskin functions, at least one white-clad was on hand to exhort the frosh and others to make a little organized noise for the benefit of the team . . . and the results obtained were highly commendable.

JOSEPH D. CALDARA
Senior Cheerleader

Perhaps the presence of the largest freshman class in the history of the University aided in the volume of the output of din in Byrd Stadium . . . at any rate, they were well-trained frosh. Daily practice sessions in the auditorium produced gratifying results which can be attributed jointly to the cooperation of the yearling class and the antics of the esteemed yell-men named above.

As usual, Homecoming Day proved to be circus day for the cheer leaders and their cohorts from the Class of '34.

Varsity Football

WINNING four of its six Southern Conference games, including victories over the "Big Four" of the Old Dominion, the Old Line Varsity football team had one of its best seasons despite the fact that it won only seven out of 12 tilts.

However, Coach Curley Byrd's charges played fine football in all their losing contests to teams of high caliber. Yale, North Carolina, Navy, Vanderbilt and Western Maryland, and gave these powerful foeman strenuous and highly interesting battles.

In fact, Maryland matched Navy in ground-gaining, had a considerable edge in yardage on North Carolina, and in the other three losing struggles simply was beaten by more experienced combinations. As a matter of fact, Maryland, in all of its big games, conceded much in experience and poundage.

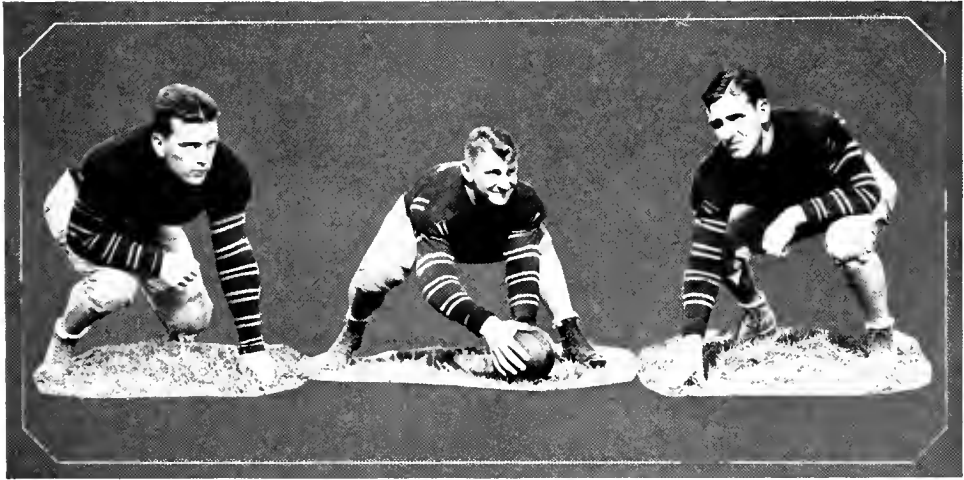

Virginia, V. M. I., Virginia Poly, and Washington and Lee were the Old Dominion teams that Maryland conquered to make a clean sweep of the Southern Conference rivals in that state. With Hopkins added to this quartet, the Old Liners won all their contests over their dearest rivals, except for that with Navy.

Probably the largest crowd ever to see a football game in the state, outside of several big contests staged in the Baltimore Stadium, saw the Navy-Maryland battle at Annapolis that went to the Middies, 6 to 0, when Kern got away for a 90-yard run and a touchdown in the first couple minutes. After that Maryland had the edge, threatening to score on no less than four occasions. As it was, the clash thrilled more than 25,000 who packed every available spot in Farragut Field.

guards; Skippy Faber, center; and Bozey Berger, Shorty Chalmers, Al Woods, Ray Poppleman, and Bill Evans, backs, played most of Maryland's football, although many others did their part in reserve roles and in the practice sessions that count for so much.

Berger, who scored 72 points on 12 touchdowns, led the State in gathering in markers, and with Shorty Chalmers on the throwing end, gained wide notoriety as one of the leading forward passing combinations of the country. Chalmers also performed the unusual feat of kicking the extra point after touchdowns 22 times in 26 tries. This classes up with the best records in football. All were from placement.

Six of the Old Line gridders were honored with places on All-State teams by experts of the Baltimore papers. Pease and Krajcovic were unanimous choices; Chalmers was a general selection, while Berger, Carliss, and Poppleman were chosen by one or more of the writers.

Krajcovic was also placed on a second All-Southern combination.

Fisher and Evans will be the only regular players lost to the team through finishing their work at the University, and unless there are "casuals" for other reasons, a fine veteran nucleus for the team will be on hand next fall.

Varsity Basketball

NATIONAL fame and the Southern Conference championship was gained by Maryland's varsity basketball team during the 1931 campaign.

Coached for the eighth consecutive year by H. Burton Shipley, former Old Line athlete, the tossers capped the climax of their regular season, in which they won 14 of 18 contests, by invading Atlanta and annexing the Dixie title in impressive style.

As a result of their triumphant march through a field of the 16 best teams in Dixieland, Bozey Berger and Ed Ronkin were named guard and forward, respectively, on the All-Southern quint. Berger, also was declared to be "the one colossal figure of the eleven years the Dixie tourney has been held" was later named a member of the All-American five by John Murray, New York expert, who is intrusted with that annual task.

In addition to Berger and Ronkin, Jack Norris, center; Shorty Chalmers and Bob Wilson, forwards; and Charlie May, Bus Pitzer and Frenchy Cohan, guards; made the trip to Atlanta and all figured in the competition.

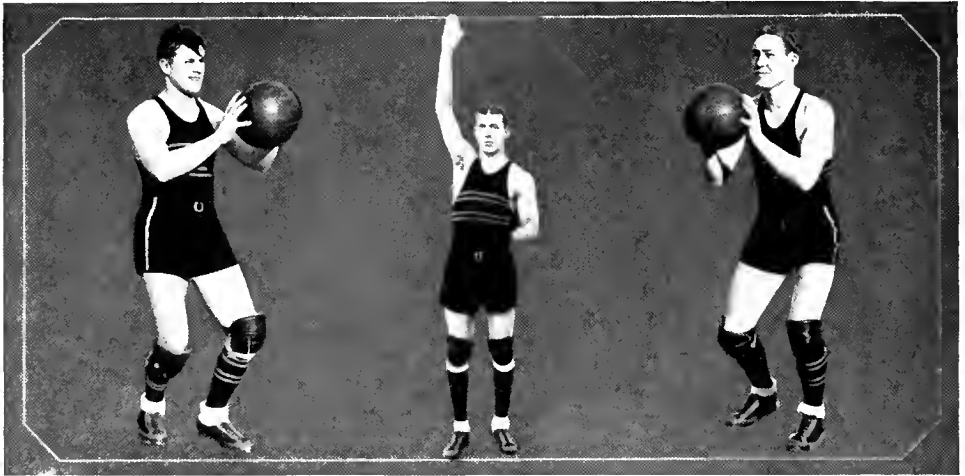

Fred Stieber and Skippy Faber were the other members of the squad who could not be taken along, but they did their part in helping to develop the title combination by yeoman's work in the scrimmages at home.

Jack Faber, who tutors the yearling tossers, accompanied Ship and his title winners to Atlanta, and helped form the board of strategy for the four victories that were needed to earn the crown.

In winning the title, the Old Liners scored over Louisiana State, 7 to 33; North Carolina, 19 to 17; Georgia, the tourney favorite, 26 to 25, and Kentucky in the final, 29 to 27.

In the final game, with less than a minute to go, Kentucky was leading 27 to 25, but Berger pocketed the ball twice in rapid succession to give Maryland the game and the championship. It was a great bit of individual brilliance. On the first goal he took a pass from Ronkin, but on the other he transported the ball down the floor himself and then, when about 15 feet away, cut it loose to go through the netting without touching the rim. This season, the Old Liners tied the second best record ever

In addition to their other honors, Berger and Ronkin also were picked on the All-State team by Paul Menton, the official and sports writer, who saw the Old Liners in action not only at College Park but in the Atlanta tourney.

Scoring records of the other players during the regular campaign were: Ronkin, 132; Chalmers, 114; Norris, 112; May, 28; Cohan, 11; Wilson, 10; Pitzer, 1.

MARYLAND'S lacrosse team, although hard hit by graduations in the class of 1930, and the victim of an unusual number of injuries before and after the 1931 season started, as usual, had one of the best twelves in the United States.

When this was written, the Old Liners had won six of seven games played, scoring over such teams as Syracuse, Penn State and Rutgers among the half dozen triumphs, and losing only to St. John's, 3 to 2, in a hectic battle decided by a last minute goal. Hopkins and Navy were yet to be met.

In the game with the Johnnies, the play of the Old Liners was fully on a par with their rivals in one of the bitterest struggles ever staged at College Park.

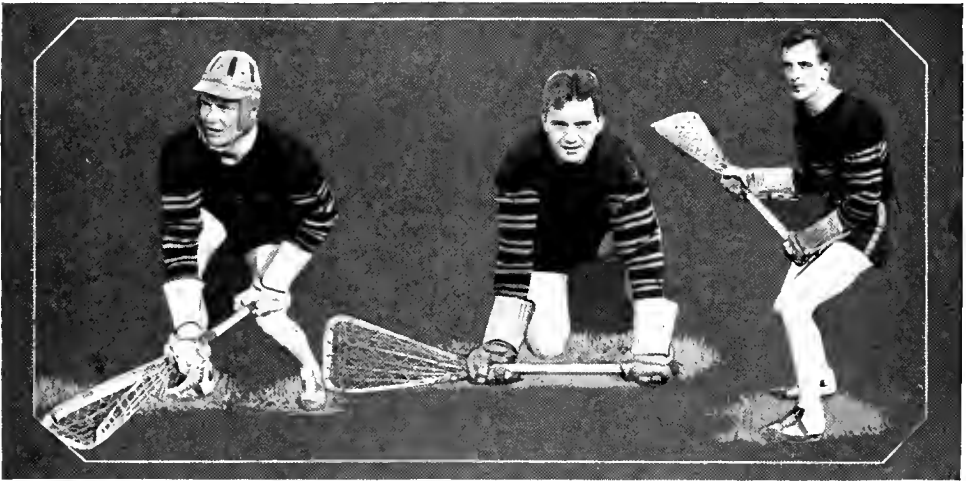

Maryland's adherents will believe to their dying day that the Old Liners would have carried off the honors had not Ed Ronkin, ace of the Old Line attack, suffered a broken ankle in the first three minutes of the contest. His going broke up a well planned attack that Bill Wood, his inexperienced substitute, despite a fine game, could not carry through. Ronkin was the wheel around which the Old Line offense was revolving, and his loss was the "break" that gave St. John's the edge.

Coach Jack Faber, who faced the problem of filling the shoes of six of his regulars of the 1930 season, had his task multiplied by an injury that cost him Skippy Faber, his brother, who was slated to play inhome, and an injury to Fred Stieber that cut down his efficiency considerably at the other home position. Stieber was forced to wear a knee brace throughout the season, and could not show his usual dash and speed. Naturally fast, he was slowed down so that he could not function in "riding" the rival defense.

In other of its games, the Maryland twelve won by rather wide margins, although the Rutgers contest was

No game has been staged at College Park that compared with the St. John's since the Old Liners beat Navy back in 1928 by a 3 to 2 count on a goal scored in the dying minutes of the battle.

The Johnnies and Maryland went through a grueling first half without scoring, and then thrilled the fans with an exhibition in the last 30 minutes that all who witnessed it will long remember.

St. John's scored first, then Maryland tied the count. Then this stunt was again repeated, a goal by Lee in the last three minutes putting the Old Liners on even terms for the second time. A couple minutes later in a wild mix-up in front of the goal, St. John's made a shot that confused the onlookers and which Invernizzi, the Maryland goalie, declared did not enter the net. However, the official ruled it a goal and Maryland was sent down to a heart-breaking defeat. At any rate, it was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, lacrosse game of the season.

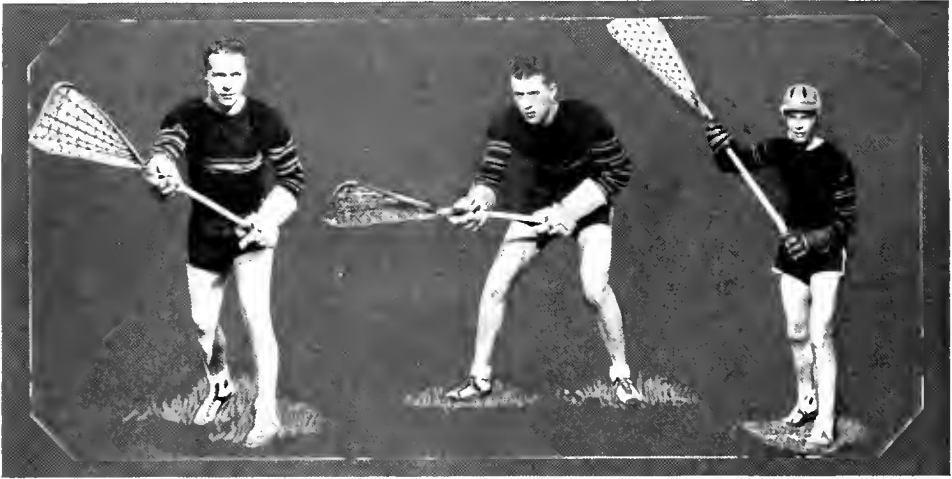

While it was Maryland's team play that told in its success, and no individual was exploited, there were several of the Old Liners who stood out a little more prominently than their teammates, due mainly to their greater experience in the pastime.

Joe Deckman and Charlie May were bulwarks on the defense; Gordon Pugh was easily the best center of the year, while Jimmy Lee and Vinnie Colosimo were the leaders on the attack, especially after Ronkin was forced into idleness by his injury.

Ivan Marty, all-time all-America point, and Al Heagy, one of the best defense men ever to play the game, both former Old Liners, did great work as Jack Faber's chief assistant and directors of the defense. They built up a fine defense out of none too promising material. It was just about as fine a job of coaching as has ever been done at College Park.

Faber, who gave his main attention to the attack, was helped by Bill Evans, probably the greatest attack player America has produced, and who amazed the lacrosse world by his prowess in the seasons of 1929 and 1930.

Maryland's season, all things considered, can truly be said to have been one of the best it ever has enjoyed doing as well as it did in view of the problems it faced.

THE OLD LINE TRACK TEAM did not win many meets during the 1931 season, but one of them was enough to give solace to an otherwise not so successful campaign.

Maryland won two meets and one of them, the final of the year, was over Johns Hopkins after a battle, and the other was a rather comfortable triumph over Catholic University.

In all the Old Liners took part in seven dual affairs of an interesting schedule and dropped five of them.

Charlie Fouts, who was the leading point scorer up to the final meet with Hopkins, from which he was kept because of an injured knee, broke the only Varsity mark for the University when he high jumped 5 feet 10 inches in winning in the clash with Navy. Fouts, who also pole vaulted and broad-jumped, scored 44 points in the six meets in which he competed.

Jess Krajcovic, all-State football guard, made 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ points in the meet with Hopkins to be the leader for the season. His total was 51 $\frac{1}{4}$. He hurled the shot and discus and high jumped. He won the shot put in five meets and was second in the other two.

Ralph Shure and Phil Cooper, both distance runners, were the next best point getters for the Old Liners during the season.

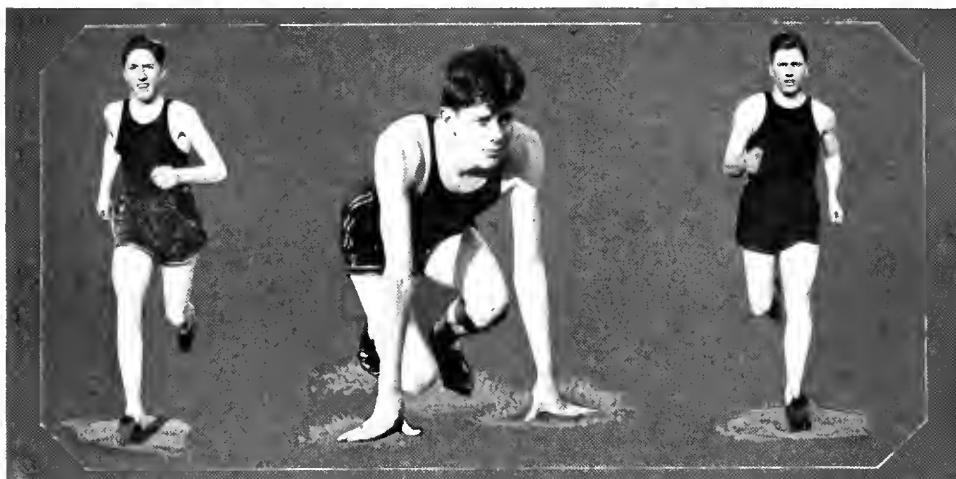

Shure compiled 33 while Cooper registered 26.

Coach Geary Eppley's 1930 team was pretty well broken up by graduations and the showing of the 1931 combination under the circumstances was unusually good. He also was hit this year by an injury to Bob Havell that kept the sprinter out of some of the meets and handicapped him so that he could do little in the others. It was in the sprints and hurdles that Maryland suffered heavily in the competition.

A fine example of what persistence will accomplish was given when Chester Ward, who had done little scoring despite his consistency in sticking with the squad and giving his best, won the 100-yard dash in the meet with Navy.

Meredith Flook, who started out as a miler, was turned into a sprinter by Coach Eppley and probably showed the greatest improvement over the season of any of the Old Line trackmen. He came to the front in the meet with Hopkins when most needed, and won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Havell and Cooper are the only ones of note who will be lost to the team, and Eppley will get some needed talent from the yearlings in Willard Piggott, hurdler; Ed Quinn, sprinter and broad jumper; and Cornelius Cronin, who runs the quarter.

Piggott broke the University record for the 120-yard high hurdles when he stepped over the barriers in 16 1/10 seconds. This beat the mark of 16 2/10 seconds made by Ed Pugh in 1925, and tied by Leroy Sheriff in 1926.

The annual field day, in which Navy offered the opposition to the Old Liners and Eastern High of Washington won the trophy and Hagerstown took the cup in the competition closed to county high schools of the state, added much to the track season. More than 300 individual athletes from 46 schools took part in the scholastic games.

Varsity Baseball

MARYLAND'S baseball team, under Coach Burton Shipley, did exceptionally well during the 1931 season in spite of some weak spots in the combination and that only two of the pitchers came through in winning fashion.

The Old Liners won 6 of 11 games in the Tri-State League of Southern Conference teams and shone in the games played with the combinations that came from its sister State, the Old Dominion. Washington and Lee and Virginia Poly each was beaten twice, Virginia once in the only tilt staged, the other being halted by rain, and an even break was gained with V. M. I.

Two members of the former Big Three of Eastern athletics, Harvard and Princeton were conquered, the Tigers being shut out in their own lair, 8 to 0.

Harry Milburn, a pitcher who only comes up to most of the players' chins, was the only mound artist to show to marked advantage. He was a consistent winner from the beginning of the campaign despite his lack of size and poundage.

Bill McIlwee, a sophomore, who was a righthanded outfielder before matriculating at Maryland, proved to be the sensation of the Old Line nine as a lefthanded twirler. He hurt his arm playing sandlot ball in Washington and was forced to turn to his southpaw wing. Next to Milburn he was Shipley's best flinger.

Bozey Berger and George Chalmers, the three letter athletes on the ball team, hit their stride after getting off to none too good a start and were showing something like their old form in the latter stages of the campaign.

It remained, however, for Hymie Gorman, a sophomore first sacker, to steal the honors with the stick.

Gorman started pounding the ball early in the season and was clouting around the .370 mark when this was penned with the end of the schedule in sight. His work in other lines also was high class.

Lack of an experienced catcher was the big weakness of the team. Ralph Sterling did a good job of it on many occasions, but he was practically new to the tasks, having won his letter in 1930 as an outfielder.

The Old Liners, too, lost Hammy Derr, second sacker, just before the Princeton game, with a broken ankle, the second he suffered to the same leg in successive seasons. He went out early last year. He had been playing steady ball at second base, and his going left Shipley with practically no reserve strength, as Herbert Cramer, who took his place, was general utility man.

In fact, Shipley was so short of men that he had to play Bob Wilson, with his almost helpless right arm as far as throwing was concerned, in center field. Bob did great work under the circumstances, but his handicap proved costly at times. He had good men on either side of him in Bob Maxwell and Paul Cronin.

Milburn, Derr, and Cramer, along with Jack Batson, the leading pitcher of 1930 who could not get going this year on account of his bad arm, were the only seniors on the squad, and Ship will inherit a barrel of talent from an unusually high-class freshman nine.

Shipley had an "ace-high" manager in Ralph Garreth, one of those "once in a lifetime" prizes.

Varsity Cross Country

WITH three victories in five meets, one of the triumphs being over John Hopkins, the Maryland Varsity Cross Country runners had a satisfactory season.

In addition to taking the measure of Hopkins, the Old Line harriers defeated St. John's and Catholic University, but lost to unusually strong Navy and Virginia Poly teams.

Ralph Shure, who was the most consistent performer for Coach Geary Eppley; Phil Cooper, Don Hammerlund, John Duncan, Sam McGlathery and Roland Brown were the letter winners. Cooper, who gave Shure a real battle for top honors, was elected honorary captain at the close of the season.

Morris Bogdanow, Donald Shaffer, Theodore DeMoll, Harold Greenfield, Meredith Flock and Howard Mays were others on the squad who figured in the competition.

Cooper was the only senior on the 1930 squad so that the outlook for next Fall is promising.

Varsity Boxing

MARYLAND'S first boxing team, coached by William Whipp, of Washington, a capable and experienced mentor, although losing all three of its matches, did well for a debut season.

The Old Liners won eight out of a total of 21 bouts, with Bernard Keener, a welterweight, being the outstanding member of the aggregation. He took all three of his contests.

Francis Holloway, who won a bout in each of the heavyweight and light-heavyweight classes, and lost one engagement in the former division, was also an impressive performer in the bout he lost, Holloway was outweighed 20 pounds.

Charles (Ted) Keenan won the only bout in which he appeared in the heavyweight class.

Karl Mech, middleweight; Jimmy Decker, bantam; Frank Isemann, lightweight; Bill Robbins, light-heavy; Bill Rise and Bill Burslem, featherweights, were the others to be considered regular members of the team.

Coach Whipp has a good nucleus around which to build next season, as Holloway is the only member of the squad who is a senior and there is a possibility that he may return for post graduate work.

Whipp worked with the squad for about six weeks after the schedule was completed in order to further develop his proteges and to get a better line on their ability.

Varsity Rifle

MARYLAND'S Varsity Rifle Team completed another good season on March 28th when it placed fifth in the National Match to determine the Intercollegiate Champion. This match, held in this section at the Naval Academy, found thirty-four teams competing, with Navy, George Washington, the University of Iowa, and Carnegie Tech, outshooting the "Old Liners". Many of the leading college teams were beaten by Maryland, including several that had turned in telegraphic victories by wide margins.

In a shoulder-to-shoulder schedule of six matches, the Varsity lost only one, to the Navy on February 28th. Navy, having one of its best years, outscored the "Old Liners" 1390 to 1344.

Fred Marshall, team captain, and William Spicknall, captain-elect, have been the outstanding members of the squad, counting in all of the shoulder-to-shoulder and league matches. Lloyd Fish and John Presley have also fired well throughout the season. Presley was twice high individual at the Naval Academy with scores of 276 and 274. Richard Gossom was another consistent shot, while Morton Silverberg, Robert Troth, and Stanley Hancock proved very valuable to the team.

Varsity Tennis

MOST of the matches were played in Washington on account of College Park courts being out of commission because of field house work.

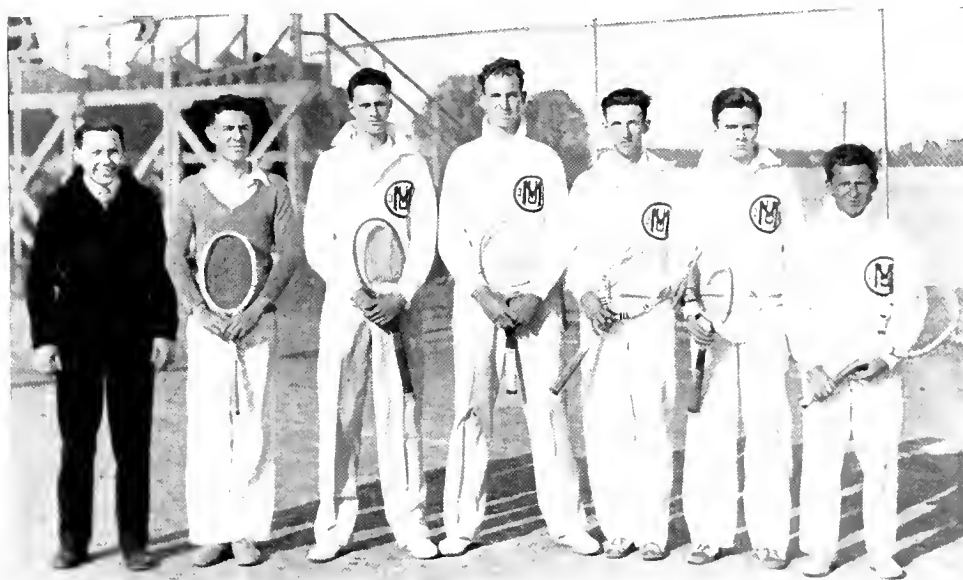

Although losing considerable more matches than it won, the Old Line tennis team did much better work than in the preceding year and gave promise of being a hard squad to beat in another season.

Maurice Goubeau, a sophomore, was the leading player of the team. He shone in the singles, winning most of his matches, and with Bill Roberts, the next best performer, scored often in the doubles.

John Bischoff, one of the most efficient managers the tennis team ever has had, also was one of the regular players, and his leadership did much to make the season profitable.

One of the victories scored was over St. John's, an old State rival, but the annual clash with Johns Hopkins was prevented by rain. In fact, rain intervened in an unusually number of the scheduled set-tos.

Roberts and Bischoff will be the only players who performed regularly to be lost by graduation, and, as there is more than the usual amount of promising talent coming up from the 1931 freshman team, the outlook for 1932 is for a much improved combination.

MISS ADELE H. STAMP
Dean of Women

Maryland Coeds

It is a far cry from the early days of 1920 when the first girl graduated from the University of Maryland to the days of 1931 when 325 girls grace our campus.

In 1922 the department of Dean of Women was created to direct the social activities of the women students and supervise their housing needs; in short, organize their entire student life. One of the primary aims of this department was to establish an effective student government among the women. This organization has proved itself very efficient. The girls have shown marked executive ability and leadership. They cooperate with the administration in carrying out the rules and regulations of the University and in solving common problems.

In the fall of 1923, the Young Women's Christian Association was formed. Since then, it has continued to be a growing student organization and an influence among the women students.

The Junior Class of 1923 were the pioneers of May Day which was given by them to the Seniors and has continued as a class tradition. The Women's Senior Honor Society, founded in the spring of 1925 was next in line. This society stands for womanhood, scholarship and citizenship. Even in its first year its worthy purposes and high ideals made a definite impression on the campus and it is now recognized as the highest honor for women.

Girls at the University have successfully established themselves in the rapidly increasing enrollment and now with the improved facilities the University has to offer the number will steadily increase.

Women's Student Government Association

EVERY woman student at the University of Maryland is a member of the Women's Student Government, and every woman who lives in one of the college dormitories or in one of the sorority houses is subject to the jurisdiction of the Women's Student Government Council.

This council is composed of a President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer elected at the end of the Spring Term for the following scholastic year. The other members of the Council are the Presidents of the various college dormitories and of the sorority houses. Meetings are held twice a month, for the purpose of discussing infractions of its rules; which are made by the organization, with the aid of the Dean of Women.

Co-education began in the scholastic year of 1916-1917 when it is said that the young men of the campus were disappointed to hear that not the expected sixteen but, that instead, two women were enrolled as students at the University of Maryland. The growth of the enrollment went by leaps and bounds, and at present there are several hundred women students.

Officers for the year 1930-1931 were: Eleanor Baumel, President; Elizabeth Mims, Vice-President; Rhoda Hatton, Secretary-Treasurer; and Catherine Bixler, Recorder of Points.

Y. W. C. A.

THE Y. W. C. A. is one of the outstanding women's organizations at Maryland. Being of unrestricted membership, it is open to all women.

During the past year it has been afforded a much appreciated cooperation from the faculty and student body. In many instances it has functioned with the Y. M. C. A. as the M. C. A. Through the aid of Mr. Virgil Lowder, Maryland Christian Association General Secretary, many worthwhile undertakings have materialized.

Inspired by the "take-off" in the form of a retreat previous to the opening of school, the cabinet members returned to the campus and carried along with the Big and Little Sister movements. In addition a most successful Freshman Week was sponsored by the organization, in helping the newcomers to familiarize themselves with the Maryland campus.

The organization assisted in putting on the Maryland Mixer, a novel social affair, and aided in carrying out a successful financial drive for the M. C. A. In addition, Christmas baskets were given to the poor. Discussion groups, meetings, conferences, retreats and similar activities were carried on throughout the year.

Among the speakers for the year were: Mary L. Clark, representing the National Student Movement; Mauro Baradi, Lawyer for the Supreme Court; Arthur Moore, Oxford student; J. Stitt Wilson, prominent American lecturer; Bishop Dollar, of New Hampshire; Bill Wilson, and many other prominent speakers of today.

The officers for the year were: Vera Klein, President; Adelaide Gray, Vice-President; Elgar Jones, Secretary; Margaret Stone, Treasurer. Other cabinet members were Francis King, Agnes Gingell, Virginia Cronin, Marjorie Ruggie, Elsie Stanforth, Lois Steinwedel, a Catherine Bixler and Ruth Curtis.

MISS EDITH BALL
Director of Women's Athletics

Miss Edith Ball

MISS EDITH BALL, new Director of Women's Athletics at Maryland, is an educator eminently qualified in training and experience to direct the physical training of women in a university.

Her original degree was a B. S. in Physical Education at Columbia University Teacher's College. After graduate work at this institution, she attended successively Colorado University, the Baird Larson School and the Bodd School in New York. During this training period, Maryland's new athletic leader developed an active interest in dancing, and this phase of physical endeavor still holds an important place in her schedule today.

As Assistant instructor in Physical Education at the Teacher's College of Columbia University, she received her first practical experience. Following this initial attempt, in which she also taught dancing, Miss Ball became Assistant Professor of Physical Education at Kent State College, Kent, Ohio, and in the year prior to her transfer to College Park she returned to Columbia to serve as Technical Assistant in Health Education.

Since she has arrived at the Old Line institution, Miss Ball has made several very definite improvements in the physical education of women. Gymnasium work has become a reality rather than a course attended lackadaisically. Moreover, the women have learned to find real enjoyment in the dancing and apparatus work.

Furthermore, she has fitted out an adequate and respectable Women's Athletic Office and improved the appearance and facilities of the women's dressing rooms. All in all, Miss Ball, in her current tenure of office, has raised the standards of women's athletics to a level never before attained by this institution, and the future holds further advance not only possible but probable.

FELISA JENKINS
President, Women's Athletic Association

Women's Athletics

WOMEN'S athletics at the University have made considerable progress during the past year. A large portion of the credit is due to Miss Stamp, Dean of Women, and to Miss Ball, Women's Director of Athletics, who came to Maryland in the fall of 1930, and has worked faithfully to promote athletics on the campus and extended the program to reach almost every woman student.

Hockey was the first sport to claim the interest of the girls. The junior team was victorious in the interclass competition. A play day with the girls from George Washington University climaxed the season.

A short season of soccer followed hockey and when the weather had grown too cold basketball and volley ball were played indoors. The sophomores were victorious in the basketball tournament.

This year Maryland has reason to be proud of the Women's Rifle Team. The girls under the direction of Sgt. Hendricks won the National Team Championship.

The early spring brought baseball and track to the Maryland campus for the first time.

Individual sports were introduced for the first time this year; golf, horseback riding, hiking and archery. The latter probably claimed the greatest attention of individual sports.

Because of the expansion of the athletic program revision of the point system was necessary to include the new sports and provide for future growth in the athletic curriculum. Points toward awards are given for participation in major, minor, and individual sports.

Women's Athletic Association

TWO definite accomplishments marked the activity of the Women's Athletic Association during the past year. First, an individual sports program was sponsored for those women who were not interested in team play, but who nevertheless desired to share in the athletic activities: and second, a point system was established which included archery, golf, swimming, and horseback riding along with the other women's major sports.

Under the direction of Miss Ball, the physical training of every woman has been adequately taken care of, regardless of whether or not the individual participated in organized sports. Also, under the new point system, the awarding of letters, numerals, and blazers has been put on an established and accurate basis.

Since its organization back in 1924, the Women's Athletic Association has steadily increased in scope of activity and influence. Women's sports have been stimulated and steadily raised during successive years, to a higher level until this year we find them at a point comparable to the best in the state.

A year marked with significant steps in the advancement of women's athletics was brought to a close, by the annual banquet of the Women's Athletic Association, in the University Dining Hall, at which time deserving women who had gained the necessary number of points, received awards.

Officers for the year 1930-31 were Felisa Jenkins, president; Evelyn Harrison, vice-president; Lou Snyder, secretary; and Mary Koons, treasurer.

Girls' "M" Club

THE Girls' "M" Club marks the goal of the Woman Athlete at the University of Maryland.

Organized locally on May 26, 1926, it has contained only those members who excelled in basketball and rifle. However, this is the second and more successful year in which a fully developed point system has been used, which gives membership in the club to those who have earned an "M" through all-around athletics. The Girls' "M" Club is becoming representative of the Women Athletes at the University of Maryland.

The purpose of the "M" Club is to further athletics and good sportsmanship among the girls at the University. Its membership is limited but the club contains those who are vitally interested in athletics, and wish the promotion of it on the campus.

THIS has been indeed a banner year for the Women's Rifle team! The able coach, Sergeant Hendricks, developed a team which may well be classed as the best in the country. Out of the twenty-six scheduled matches fired, not one was lost or tied. An even greater victory was gained by the team in winning first place in the National Team Championship match, sponsored by the National Rifle Association, with a score of 2,962 out of a possible 3,000. This is the first time Maryland has possessed the "Women's Intercollegiate Rifle Championship" since 1926.

Further honor was brought to the team by Francis McCubbin, Irene Knox and Felisa Jenkins, who won 2nd, 3rd and 4th places in the Women's Individual Intercollegiate Championship match with the respective scores of 593, 592 and 591 out of a possible 600.

Honors for individual high scoring go to Irene Knox, who totaled 3,170 out of a possible 3,300, and to Betty Mulligan and Dorothy Blaisdell, who hold 2nd and 3rd places.

The members of the team for 1930-31 are:

Women's Hockey

HAVING reached the height of popularity among Women's athletics last year, hockey continued to be the favorite sport for girls. Mary Ingersoll, who was elected manager, planned the program for the season. Although the number of girls who came out for the teams was not large, the enthusiasm which they showed, coupled with the skillful coaching of Miss Edith Ball, made the 1930 season a lively one.

After several weeks of practice, a series of games was played among the classes. The sophomores beat the freshmen 4 to 1. Although the senior team was not complete and the juniors won from the seniors by default, Miriam Lloyd and her four classmates put up a strong resistance against eleven juniors just for the fun of playing. For the deciding game, the juniors and sophomores recruited their prize players and lined up for a stiff battle. The teams were evenly matched, and the play was fast and hard. Lib Bonthrom rushed through the sophomore line, but was repulsed time and again by Lou Snyder. However, the upper classmen socked the ball twice too often between the sophomore posts and won by a score of 4 to 2. The championship team consisted of Frances McCubbin, Kathleen Nester, Mary Ingersoll, Catherine Luers, Elizabeth Bonthrom, Vera Klein, Rhoda Hatton, Eloyse Sargent, Margaret White, Ruth Reed, Margaret Herring.

Women's Basketball

ALWAYS the favorite sport among the girls; basketball excited more enthusiasm than ever before. Besides the usual interclass games, there was a tournament featuring the court stars of the different houses.

In the first game of the season, the crack sophomore team overwhelmed the freshmen by a score of 36-4. In the next game the juniors swamped the seniors 57-10. The juniors ran around the freshmen for a 54-6 beating in the third game.

The sophomore-senior game was surprisingly close. The underclassmen pulled a 24-22 victory. The contest between the seniors and freshmen was an ordinary one ending 24-14 in the seniors' favor.

Until now, the series created little excitement. In every contest, the juniors or sophomores were far too superior to make competition close enough for arousing keen feeling. However, when these two teams clashed in the championship game there was some real basketball. The upperclassmen were finally forced to yield with a score of 34-32 in the sophomores' favor. The members of the winning team were: Forwards: Louise Hersperger, Captain; Florence Peter, Esther Hughes, Dot Lane, and Eleanor Meyer; Guards: Lou Snyder, Gladys Oberlin, and Rosa Lee Reed.

The program of inter-house games did not prove as full as was expected. The "Y" Hut, Practice House, and Gerneau withdrew from the list. An elimination tournament was held. A. U. X. beat Homestead 11-5. K. D. won from A. O. Pi 16-15 after a stiff and spirited fight. The A. U. X. team was defeated by K. K. G. in a mediocre tussle by a score of 13-7. These results left the decisive game to be played between K. K. G. and K. D. Both teams realized the importance of the match and so much feeling of rivalry was aroused that the results were uncertain until the final whistle. K. K. G. nosed out their opponents 19-17.

The All-Maryland team picked by Miss Ball, the captains, and manager, from all who had participated in the season, included the following girls: Ruth Reed, Evelyn Harrison, Louise Hersperger, Rosa Lee Reed, Lou Snyder, Eloyse Sargent, Florence Peter, Elizabeth Bonthrom, Elgar Jones, Vera Kline, Ethel Trask, and Harriet Bishop.

Women's Volley Ball

THE inauguration of volley ball as a minor sport on the co-ed's sport card created the usual enthusiasm and pep with which new sports are greeted on the Maryland campus.

A tournament was held in which each class was represented by a capable team, and which lasted for about two weeks. The first encounter saw the freshmen come out victorious over the sophomores and juniors. The second game proved defeat for the freshmen and sophomores at the hands of the junior team. The sophomore-junior game resulted in terrible disaster for the lower class club. The final play off between the two winning teams was a neck-to-neck battle, both teams aspiring to the championship. The final whistle ended the struggle with a victory and a championship for the third classmen, however, with but a narrow margin of three points, the score resulting 30-33.

The championship team was composed of: Eloyse Sargent, captain; Margaret Herring, Francis King, Elizabeth Bonthrom, Ruth Reed, Francis McCubbin, Buchy Clemson, and Betty Kent.

Women's Soccer

S OCCER, which was ranked as a major sport for the first time this year, excited more interest than ever before. Although the season was a short one, there was time for several practices, for a series of games, and for a most unusual event, in the form of a play-day, with George Washington University. This interesting program was arranged by Ruth Reed, the manager.

The play-day with George Washington University was by far the biggest thing of the season. The entire soccer squad of that school journeyed out to play on the Maryland field. Games were carried on all afternoon. Because of the rule prevailing at both Universities against intercollegiate competition among girls, the teams of the two schools were mixed so that there would be no distinct Maryland or George Washington line-up. This made the contests lose the spirit of competition, but not that of sport. No scores were kept.

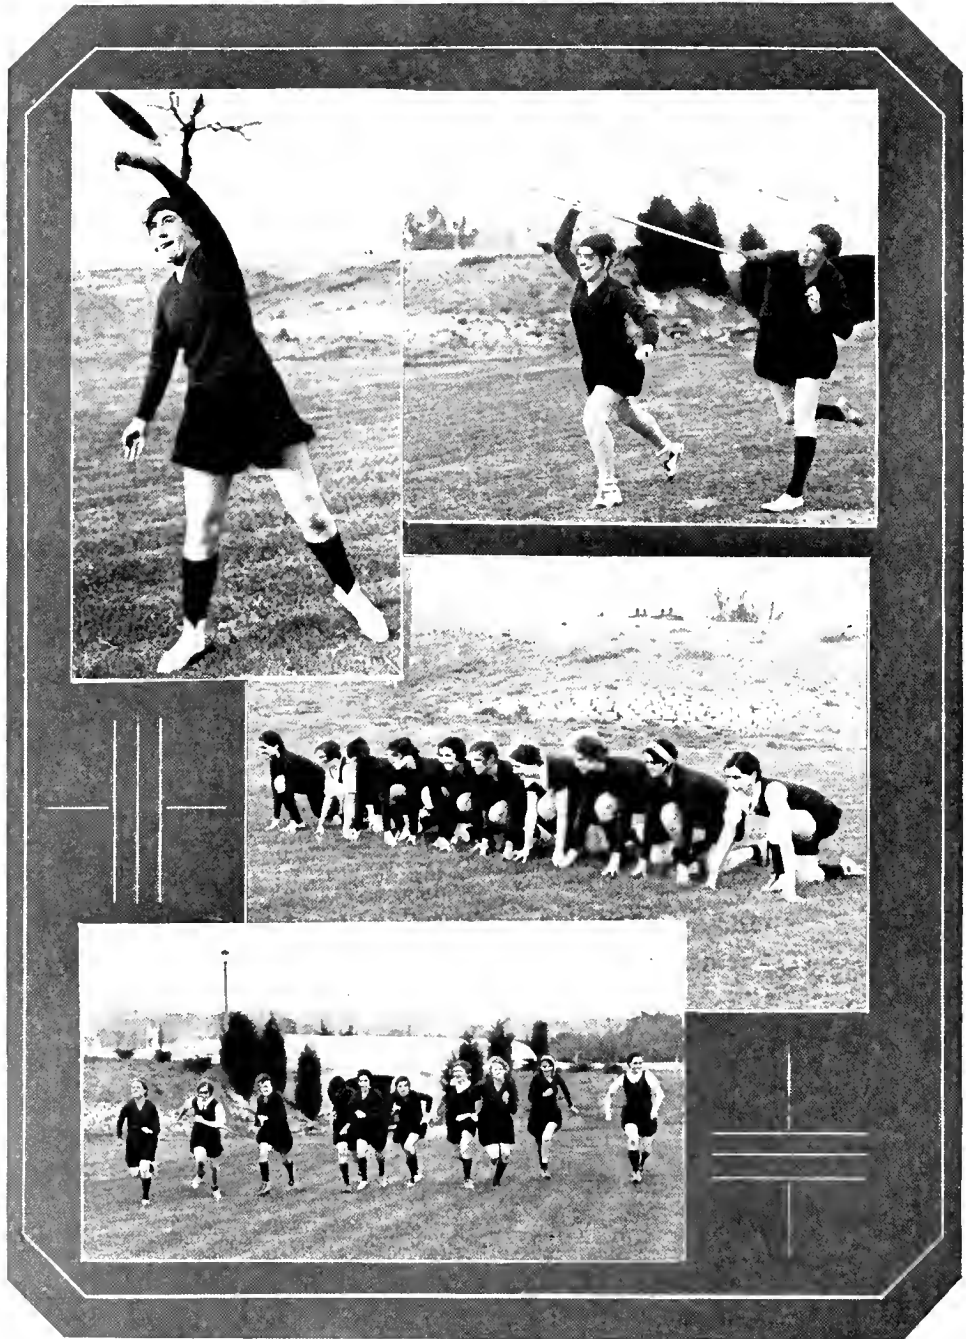

Games were played also between the class teams. By a series of elimination, the Sophomores defeated the Juniors and thereby won the school championship.

The All-Maryland team selected was as follows:

Elizabeth Bonthrom.....	Goal Keeper

Council of Oratory and Debate

THE COUNCIL OF ORATORY AND DEBATE has a two-fold purpose. The most important function being to pick those men who will represent the university in intercollegiate debating. Each Fall the Council holds "try-outs," at which time any man or woman may compete for a place on the team. It is only after careful consideration that the debate squad of six is finally decided upon. The second purpose of this organization is to supervise over the annual intersociety debate between the New Mercer Literary and Poe Literary Societies, held the last week in April.

The Council is composed of four students: the Presidents of the Literary Societies, the President of the Student Assembly, the President of the Woman's Student Government Association; and of at least one member of the faculty chosen by the Council. Those students on the Council this year are:

Henry Whiting, President of Student Government Association.

Eleanor Baumel, President of Women's Student Government Association.

Robert Beall, President of New Mercer Literary Society.

Carl Everstine, President of Poe Literary Society.

Those students picked by the council to debate for Maryland are: Henry Whiting, Bennie Epstein, Thomas Davis, Richard Kline, and Herbert Eby. After the squad was chosen Herbert Eby was elected captain and John Bischoff was made manager.

Bischoff has arranged a very interesting schedule with leading schools in the East, and it is believed that the Maryland team should have a very successful season.

Debating Team

THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND is represented by two debating teams, a Men's team and a Women's team. These two clubs work entirely independent of each other. Membership on the squads is open to anyone, and is judged entirely on a competitive basis. Tryouts for the debating squads are held each Fall under the supervision of the Council of Oratory and Debate. Our teams have always aimed to develop intramural and intercollegiate debating to a high degree.

At the present time one of the better forensic fraternities is being petitioned and it is expected that in the near future our debaters will have a new goal to work for. The national secretary of Tau Kappa Alpha has talked the entire situation over with Herbert Eby, who is striving to bring this fraternity to our campus, and the possibilities of a charter are most favorable.

The girls team this year was composed of Myra Lewis, Ruth Curtis, Catherine Bixler, and Rachel Holst, who was manager. Their most important debates are scheduled with Bucknell and Ursinus.

The mens team is represented by Henry Whiting, Richard Kline, Bennie Epstein, Thomas Davis, Herbert Eby, Captain, and John Bischoff, Manager. Their first debate was lost to Boston University, which has always had one of the best debating teams in the country. With this valuable experience the squad should perform very creditably in the future debates with Bucknell, Gettysburg, Richmond University and Virginia.

Engineering Society

THE ENGINEERING SOCIETY of the University of Maryland had as its object to bring together from time to time all the students of the Engineering College with the purpose of developing their social relations, and also having such programs as will be of intellectual benefit to the members.

During the past year the Engineering Society has been fortunate in securing some prominent engineers to lecture on the following popular engineering subjects: "Flood Control and Hydro-Electric Development of the Potomac", Mr. E. J. Merrick, U. S. Navy; "Bridge Building", Colonel H. G. Berrig, Consulting Engineer; "Relation of Biological Laws to Engineering", Dr. George W. Field, U. S. National Museum; "Work of Coast and Geodetic Survey", Col. William Bowie, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

The feature presentation of the year was a demonstration of "How the Talking Movie Works" by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. . . . The students and faculty of the entire University were guests of the Engineering Society on this occasion.

In addition to the lectures, most of which were illustrated by slides, the monthly programs consisted of motion pictures on various subjects of interest.

Student Grange

THE STUDENT GRANGE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND is a local unit of the National Grange, or Patrons of Husbandry, as it is called. The National Grange, organized in 1874, has long been influential in voicing the farmers' opinion, and has been the instigator and promotor of such movements as the Parcel Post, the Department of Agriculture, and road improvement.

The Student Grange has been influential in the growth of our school, by keeping the rural population acquainted with and interested in their state university. The Student Grange is unique among Granges in being entirely composed of students, with the exception of the Faculty Advisor, Prof. Geary Eppley, who is also the Master of the Pomona Grange.

In Student Grange Meetings, problems of interest to farmers and students are discussed. Degree and installation teams visit other chapters in the state, and delegates are sent to Pomona (county) and State Grange meetings.

This year the Grange sent a team to install officers at the Sparks Grange, installed officers of the Pomona Grange at a meeting in the Auditorium, and sent a team to confer the third and fourth degrees at the Woodville Grange in Montgomery county.

The present officers are: Master—Howard Stier; Secretary—Mary Ingersoll; Overseer—Engel Gilbert; Lecturer—Irvin Gilbert; Lady Assistant Lecturer—Elizabeth Norton; Steward—William Hanna; Treasurer—Ralph England; Lady Assistant Treasurer—Sara Huffington; Chaplain—Carroll Warner; Assistant Steward—James House; Lady Assistant Steward—Vera Klein; Ceres—Virginia Cronin; Pomona—Frances King; Flora—Rosalie Goodhart.

Episcopal Club

THE EPISCOPAL CLUB of the University of Maryland is distinctly a Church group consisting of students and faculty, the aims of which are: (1) closer fellowship among its members; (2) affiliation with the National Student Council of the Episcopal Church, thus cooperation with similar groups of Church students throughout the country and the world; and (3) the following five-point program: viz., Worship, Religious Education, Church Extension, Campus and Community service.

During the past year the Club carried on in mission study and discussion groups, by participating in the annual Tri-Diocesan Student Conference, the Washington Conference on the Ministry, the New York Women's Conference, and the Student Lenten Fund for St. John's Medical School, Shanghai, China. At the local St. Andrew's Church, of which our Chaplain is Rector, the Club identified itself as follows: its members taught in the Sunday School, sang in the choir, played the organ, read the lessons, and served at Communions. Monthly corporate communions of the Club were held regularly.

The work of the year was begun with a reception to all Episcopal students, followed later by a corporate communion breakfast, certain lectures, dinners, and dances, concluding with an annual dinner and theatre party.

The officers during the year were: Robert Stowell, President; Adelaide Gray, Vice-President; Elizabeth Jones, Recording Secretary; Margaret Stone, Corresponding Secretary; John Yourtee, Treasurer; Reverend Ronalds Taylor, S.T.D., Chaplain.

Livestock Club

THE LIVESTOCK CLUB is an organization of the students and faculty in the College of Agriculture interested in animal husbandry. The aim of the club is to bring men with farm experience together with men who are studying the theoretical side of agriculture, by so doing the club has enabled the students to get an inside view of the problems of practical farming, especially that of raising livestock. Thus, by getting the practical side from these men, and by studying the theoretical side in the curriculum of the University the members of the club get a wider view of methods of handling livestock and their success. The club also aims to develop men who will go back to the rural communities and there, be leaders in the livestock industry, doing as much as possible to raise the industry to a higher level. In order to aid in the betterment of livestock the club helps organize and finance livestock judging teams, these teams being sent as representatives of the club and the university to the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass. and other nearby places in competition with teams from other schools. The years that Farmer's Day is held at the University, the club sponsors a Livestock Fitting and Showing Contest, in which the members compete with one another for the various prizes, the ultimate prize or sweepstakes being the Faculty Loving Cup, given to the student who has fitted and showed his animal to the best advantage.

The club reaches its goal by aiding in the advancement of livestock, its ultimate objective being to further this industry throughout the state and country.

The officers for 1930-1931 are: Arthur M. Ahalt, President; Ralph L. England, Vice-President; Manville Cobletz, Secretary; James Stevenson, Treasurer; Wilbur McCann, Sophomore Representative.

New Mercer Literary Society

THE NEW MERCER LITERARY SOCIETY is the oldest of any society on the campus, and one of the oldest literary societies actively connected with an American University. In January of 1860, the New Mercer Literary Society was organized for the cultivation of the intellectual faculties of the students and at the same time provide a means of entertainment. The society was forced to hold its bi-weekly meetings more frequently this year because of the increased interest shown in literary work.

For the past year the programs fostered various fields of education and the diversion proved extremely popular by both the members and many other interested students.

The outstanding event each year is a debate held with the Poe Literary Society. A cup is offered by Dr. Patterson, former President of the University—The President's Cup.

Last year New Mercer won the debate from Poe. John O'Neill and Edward Tippett representing New Mercer were acclaimed the best speakers and as an alumnae medal is presented to the best speaker in the debate, neither have been justly compensated for their endeavors. New Mercer is out to win the coveted trophy again this year. The officers for the year 1930-31 were: Robert Beall, President; Martha Ross Temple, Vice-President; Edward Tippett, Treasurer; Kathleen Nestor, Secretary.

Y. M. C. A.

ALWAYS something new! This time it is in an organization which bids fair to be one of the most helpful that has graced our campus. Already it has proved its worth, and it has just begun. Already it is difficult for many to think of Maryland without the Maryland Christian Association.

Late last Spring a number of leading students began to feel a need for a more unified, student controlled religious movement on the campus. With the assistance of Mr. L. C. Wilson, of the National Office of the Student Department of the Y. M. C. A., and the backing of the Administration, Virgil Lowder was called from Yale to be General Secretary, and the M. C. A. was organized. The new organization combines and coordinates the activities of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. It is a fellowship of students and faculty who are endeavoring to search out and to live life at its best. It endeavors to meet the needs of all students on the campus, and every one who cares to take part in its activities is welcomed.

The program this year has included such items as the publication of the M. C. A. Handbook, valuable aid to the Freshman, the first annual Maryland Mixer—or get acquainted party—for the entire school, the maintenance of a reading and lounging room for all students, a new library of stimulating books, the giving out of cards recognized at many city Y. M. C. A.'s, placing men in Boys' Work in near-by communities, entertainments for students in faculty homes, discussion groups on social, economic, industrial, and religious questions, a regular devotional group, a series of Sunday evening meetings, week-end retreats for study and discussion, a Good-Will Seminar between Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, and numerous other features. Many outstanding speakers have been brought to the campus. Among these were: Dr. Charles E. McAllister, of Evanston, formerly of Baltimore; Dr. F. N. Seerley, of Springfield, Mass.; Hon. J. Stitt Wilson; Rabbi Edward L. Israel, Baltimore; Dr. Albert N. Woods, Washington; Dr. Nathan Krass, New York; Dr. Phillips Elliott, New York; Dr. John Van Schaick, Boston; Dr. Paul Harrison, Arabia; Mr. Arthur Moor, New York; Mr. Coleman Jennings, Washington; Prof. Alexander Zabriskie, Alexandria; Miss Mary L. Clark, India; Mr. Lawrence Lee, Washington; Mr. Everett Clinchy, New York; Dr. Charles B. Herzog, Woodstock College, Md., and many others.

An Appreciation

AS EDITOR OF THE 1931 REVELLE; WE HAVE SENSED THE IMPERFECTIONS OF THIS VOLUME AND HAVE ASSUMED THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEM. WE HAVE ATTEMPTED TO PORTRAY THOSE PRESENT EVENTS WHICH WILL SOON PASS INTO OBSCURITY, IN A LIGHT AND JOYFUL MANNER, TYPICAL OF THE MARYLAND CAMPUS. FOR THIS REASON, IF NO OTHER, WE BELIEVE THERE ARE CERTAIN EDITORIAL INNOVATIONS AND ARTISTIC CONCEPTIONS IN THE 1931 REVELLE WHICH GIVE IT AN INDIVIDUALITY AND EXCELLENCE OF ITS OWN. WITHOUT THE COOPERATION AND SUPPORT OF THE STAFF AND OF THE MANY PERSONS NOT OFFICIALLY ON THE STAFF, WHOSE DISINTERESTED ENTHUSIASM HAS MADE IT A PLEASURE TO WORK WITH THEM; THIS ANNUAL HAS BEEN MADE POSSIBLE. IT IS ENTIRELY PROPER AT THIS POINT TO MENTION THOSE TO WHOM WE ARE PARTICULARLY INDEBTED: MR. JAMES S. DECKER, FOR HIS ORIGINALITY AND INDEFATIGABLE ENERGY IN PRODUCING THE ART WORK OF THE YEARBOOK; MR. ELMER S. BURRUS, FOR HIS EFFICIENT AID IN MOUNTING; CASSON STUDIO, FOR THEIR EXCELLENT PHOTOGRAPHY AND PROMPT DELIVERIES ON ALL ORDERS; MAURICE JOYCE ENGRAVING COMPANY FOR THEIR ARTISTIC, IMMEDIATE AND EXPERT SERVICE ON ALL ENGRAVINGS; THE READ-TAYLOR COMPANY, ESPECIALLY MR. HARRY LAVELLE FOR ASSISTANCE AND PRINTING OF THE BOOK, MR. WILLIAM H. HOTTEL, FOR HIS INTEREST IN THE PROGRESS AND SUPERVISION OF THE BOOK, THE FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS WHO SO PACIFICALLY ACCEPTED ALL INTERRUPTIONS AND RETURNED GOOD FOR EVIL BY COOPERATING TO THE GREATEST EXTENT.
